

Major Sounds DJ'ed the Wedding Reception of Nathan Lane and Megan Appenheimer on September 13th 2008. The wedding started at 4PM and the reception started following the wedding ceremony at Knights of Columbus in Kewanee Il. Approximately 300 people at reception. The reception wound down between 11PM and Midnight. Major Sounds played music while the reception was taken down and they packed up some of their gear. From what I can tell as the Groom, everyone had enjoyed the reception and enjoyed dancing and partying on the dance floor. I know I enjoyed the evening there with family and friends while dancing, jumping, and enjoying all the good times.

I expected a good mix of music from them, since my wife and I gave them a CD of sample music we liked, but I was very impressed at how well they picked extra music and transitioned the songs. They really knew their music and really got into what we liked for music. They played songs that I had forgotten about, and I was honestly impressed with them for finding those musical jewels to match our sample list. Their collection of music was impressive, and guests enjoyed looking through the lists to find their favorites to request, which added to the evening.

The DJ set up was done very well considering the amount of space they had to work with. The different lights, smoke machine, and bubble machine added to the atmosphere of the evening. The wireless microphones allowed us to make toasts, introductions and announcements from anywhere in the building. I remember the DJ telling everyone between songs that more interactive dance songs were coming up as he walked between the tables, encouraging more people to get out there and dance. The DJ also introduced our wedding party and did very well with pronouncing the names, timing the entry into the hall, and getting music back on while everyone talked, got drinks and food, and ate.

Major Sounds provided plenty of sound to fill the room for the speeches, introductions, and music. The only time we had volume trouble was trying to talk over the wound up crowd right after a song. Granted, we did put the DJ in the corner, and only the people on the far side by the bar couldn't hear. So really, sound power was not the problem, just too many happy people enjoying the night!

Honestly, I don't think we could have found a better DJ for our wedding reception, nor do I think they could have done a better job at DJing our wedding reception. I was totally impressed with the set up and music selection. It was a great time, great evening, and great music.

Thank you Major Sounds for doing our wedding reception!
